AFE history	I have been an active member of AFE since 2006 leading the Professional Development Committee with several new programs including Info Central which will put AFE as the place to go for any facilities related information. I have developed relationships with other organizations which have and continue to move AFE into the future.
Work history	2004 to Present Senior Director of Engineering for Erickson Living and presently manage over 50,000,000 sq ft of property across the country. Previous I was the Construction Manager (Quality Control Superintendent) for the Supreme Court of the United States.
Why this candidate should be elected to the position	Because of my years in AFE and other organizations, I feel I have a wealth of experience, have learned the AFE inside and out, including political struggles and feel I have a clear vision for how we can efficiently progress to the next level as an organization. My vision includes taking AFE from the exceptional leadership of Tom Baxter and the dedication of the entire Board to the next level as "The Place To Go For Facilities Information and Certification." One main responsibility will be the positive representation of the AFE and as I presently do now, speak on behalf of the AFE at other organizations and represent the AFE. I will continue the positive atmosphere of the present Board and be able to make the tough calls. We have recruited several companies with the leadership of the Board and will continue not only building our certification programs but recruiting new and working members as we have successfully done the past year. We are on the threshold of expanding internationally because of our certifications and organization and we need to keep this on the fast track for both fiscal responsibility and AFE growth. I will not back away from the tough calls and will continue to seek the involvement of all who are willing to devote the time it takes to get us to the next level. I have found myself in a position of developing ideas, working them through, finding existing and new members to work on the programs as we develop and start on other new ideas. I dedicate a tremendous amount of time to AFE and have the full support of my employer.

I have dedicated myself to the AFE through my involvement, but being AFE chair is the definitive way for me to give back.
